CASTLES IN THE GLADES

By Marjorie B. Wallace.

Sunday, July 22.—The Castle flags are at half mast. Over the government buildings, over the dredges and government equipment, and in our hearts, that traditional sign of mourning is floating, to tell the world that we have lost a judicious, understanding and respected executive, a gallant gentleman, and a loyal friend.

I doubt if there has ever been in charge of work anywhere a man more universally loved than Mr. Moore. The same bewildered grief is the part of all who knew him, whether the acquaintance was of years or of months. His praise was the goal of all the men who worked for him, and one man said, "With Mr. Moore gone, this is 'Just another job' to me. No matter who might be my immediate superior at any time, I have always worked for Mr. Moore's appreciation and respect; if he was satisfied, so was I."

When a friend passes on to that world beyond our ken, unconsciously we erect in our memories our own private monuments to his honor and inscribe them with our own private epitaphs. My contacts with Mr. Moore were scattered and various. Occasionally we met out on the work, occasionally he would drop into our house for a chat or a share of the family meal. I met him the first night he spent in Clewiston when he was sent down here to take charge of this project. Pop and I were working on labor and cost reports at the office—that was in the days when men were far too few for the job and— we all pitched in and did our bit after hours to keep things going smoothly. Mr. Moore strolled into the office to see what was going on, and after proper introductions I asked him politely if he were to be in Clewiston long, not having the slightest idea that this was Pop's new boss. Mr. Moore twinkled and said that he thought he might spend quite some time in Clewiston. His dry and searching humor is what I will remember longest, I think; it was, to me, his outstanding and most endearing characteristic. That wise and kindly smile, that impish chuckle, those shaking shoulders, the apt and unexpected remark which hit the spot and said far more than a long speech—those are the memories I have inscribed on my monument to him. In death, the ghost of that unfailing humor lingered on his face—he refused to look solemn even on his most solemn occasion.

Every man on the job has an anecdote to illustrate that trait of Mr. Moore's. Soon after he came here, a man arrived at the office to ask for a job. Mr. Moore was leaning over a table, and the man walked up to him, clapped him condescendingly on the back, and said, "My good man, where can I find Mr. Moore?" Our boss said, pointing to one of the young men working in another part of the office, "I don't know, but you might ask him." So, after the inevitable result, there wasn't much for the fresh young applicant for a position to do but fade as rapidly and inconspicuously as possible. Which he did.

As an executive, Mr. Moore combined the utmost fairness to his men with an expectation that they would do their work, do it well, and do it without question. He could be as severe as he was kind, but the severity was seldom needed, because the men would work their heads off for him and be glad of the chance to do it. He had to the nth degree the gift of inspiring enthusiasm and respect

ROTARY

Details of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation in its relation to bank deposit guarantees, was explained by E. G. Kilpatrick, jr., as principle speaker at Pahokee Rotary luncheon Thursday. Mr. Kilpatrick, cashier of the Bank of Pahokee, reviewed the banking situation before the national bank holiday in March of last year and explained the workings of the federal financial corporation.

Past President Bert Lapp presided at the noon meeting and led in the opening song "America." Committees on club projects gave reports and were discharged with thanks. The presiding officer gave notice of the approaching visit of District Governor E. G. Thatcher on August 30 when a post-luncheon session of the district and local officers will convene.

The talk next Thursday will be given by Town Councilman B. Elliott on "City Waterworks."

KISSIMMEE DRAIN PLAN IS REJECTED

Rejection of an application for $750,000 for flood control work in the Kissimmee river valley, was announced Tuesday by Jerome A. Connor, assistant state administrator for the FERA. Application had been made to the federal relief agency to aid cattlemen of the valley area by allotting funds for drainage work in the section recently flooded by heavy rains.

A proposed plan had been submitted calling for a broad, shallow canal paralleling Kissimmee river designed to dispose of surplus flood waters in that section.

Arrangements have been made for federal purchase of cattle in the area affected by flood waters.

SHOULD PROTECT 'GATORS AS ASSET SAYS SPORT CLUB

The Florida alligator is an asset, not a liability, and the vanishing saurian which was once plentiful in Florida's lakes and streams should be protected and allowed to increase, members of the newly formed Martin County Rod and Gun Association have decided.

The conservation group, by resolution, have asked the Martin county commission to secure permission from state authorities to close the county permanently to alligator hunting.

Local sportsmen declare that lakes and streams now practically denuded of 'gators are filled with garfish and turtles which prey on the spawn of black bass and bream. The enemies of the game fish are the natural food of the alligator, they declared, and when the 'gators are killed off by hide hunters, nature's balance is disturbed.

The group also maintained that the alligator's value as a tourist attraction in Florida's tropical streams far supersedes the commercial value of its leather.

Apply First Stucco On Belle Glade Church Unit

The first coat of stucco is being applied this week on the new unit of the Belle Glade Methodist church, all preliminary work of framing and sheathing having been completed some time ago. The unit consists of a large assembly room which will be used for church services and other gatherings, and Sunday school rooms on each side of the main room.

The structure, built to withstand winds of high velocity, will serve as a place of worship for the congregation until a proposed sanctuary is built some time in the future.

RAISING STEEL AT LIGHT PLANT

Heavy steel I-beams are being placed this week for the new power unit of the Florida Power & Light Company's Pahokee plant, the beams to serve as vertical members of the all-steel building frame. The first beams were raised Wednesday following placement of the 20-ton bedplate of the power unit.

The structure housing the 1000-horsepower generator will be of all-metal construction and will be storm-resistant to a high degree.

The unit is expected to be in operation some time in October.

J. W. Moore Dies At Clewiston Home

J. W. Moore, civilian head of the U. S. engineer's office in Clewiston, died at 4:30 o'clock last Friday afternoon following a brief illness. Mr. Moore had been connected with the Lake Okeechobee levee work since March, 1931, and was in charge of the local office until stricken with a serious attack of illness in 1932. Since that time his health had not been of the best, although he returned to his duties and had remained active until the time of his death.

Mr. Moore came from Daytona Beach, where he was stationed for some time. He had been a government engineer for many years.

The body was taken to Thomasville, Ga., his native city, for burial.

RESET LIGHT POLE

A line crew of the Florida Power & Light Campany has reset a pole in front of the new Ford building under construction at Pahokee for B. Elliott, the change being made to make room for a driveway into the new building. A transformer, street light switch and numerous lines were transferred from the old pole to the new one a few feet away.

George Lock and Sam Key are neighbors in Millville, N. J.

Can Grow Beans In Summer But Not As Commercial Crop In Glades Farming Region

Harvesting green snap beans grown on Everglades muck land in mid-summer is a new departure in local farming but the fact does not presage a general move in off-season vegetable production. At least two farmers in the Belle Glade district have picked beans in marketable quantities in the past few days, Luther Lines picking from two to five hampers daily for a week or more and R. H. Ford taking his first two hampers of beans from an acre patch Wednesday. Mr. Lines picked 15 hampers from a field in section 6, west of Belle Glade last Sunday.

The experiments of Mr. Ford on his farm north of the Hillsboro canal bridge and east of Pahokee road at Belle Glade, are being made as a result of his having a quantity of home-grown seed on hand and his desire to check results of summer planting. Beans now maturing on his place were planted seven weeks ago, since which time he has planted a half acre to an acre weekly. The best appearing bean vines were planted on Friday, July 13, beans planted before that time making large, thrifty vines but setting few beans. Heavy rains have been responsible for dropping of bloom, Mr. Ford believes.

George Tedder, long time farmer of the Belle Glade section, inspected the Ford Planting Wednesday and stated that the bean crop was the earliest he had seen in the Everglades winter trucking section. Few of the beans have been fancy quality but bring ready sale on local markets. Quotations run from $1.50 to $1.75 at this time.

Few farmers who have attempted to raise beans during the summer rainy season have obtained results that would encourage them to plant beans on a commercial scale.

CONSIDER METHOD OF ROAD 26 WORK

Public Roads Engineers Consider Suggestion

Possibility of drainage benefits through dredging of North New River canal for road material is being considered by federal highway engineers in the improvement plan for Road 26 between Lake Okeechobee and the lower east coast.

Construction of the road through the middle Glades has long been agitated by residents of the lower east coast and the south Lake Okeechobee area, approval by the state road department for construction of the highway with federal funds having been given several months ago.

Effort to coordinate drainage work with road building in the Everglades has been sought by Thomas E. Will, pioneer resident and developer whose interest in the project has gained some recognition and comment from official sources. The plan in its simplest form, would utilize material excavated in drainage operations, for roads along canal banks. Drainage of adjacent muck lands and roads for its developers would form a desirable combination of the two improvement features, proponents of the plan declare.

Concerning Road 26, from South Bay at Lake Okeechobee to 20-Mile Bend, west of Fort Lauderdale, Dr. Will has received communications from the Bureau of Public Roads in Washington in one of which P. St. J. Wilson, chief engineer, said in part:

"There has recently been made available by Congress further road

170 COUPLES AT LEGION DANCE

A financial and social success is reported by the American Legion post at Pahokee as a reward for their efforts in sponsoring a special dance Wednesday night at the lakefront pavilion. The Cocoanuts, radio orchestra of St. Petersburg furnishing the music, the dance starting at 9:30 in order that the orchestra might return to a west coast engagement Thursday morning.

The dance committee consisting of Commander George Mead and W. E. Evans and assisted by local Legionnaires maintained excellent order during the evening and provided electric fans for comfort of the 170 couples who attended the affair. Couples all the way from Okeechobee to Clewiston and from the east coast were present.

The Legion post expects to secure the Cocoanuts for a return engagement in the near future.

Announcement was made that Bob Chamberlin and his orchestra from Canal Point would furnish music for a Legion dance at Clewiston next Friday night. The dance will be held at the Clewiston Inn.

ROAD 25 MATERIAL

A low bid of $3,690 for surfacing rock on state road No. 25 was received with other material bids by the state road department Tuesday at Tallahassee. The rock will be used in surfacing a stretch of the highway between 20-Mile Bend and West Palm Beach in Palm Beach county.

NEW AIR MARKER POINTS TO FIELD

The name "Pahokee" and an arrow pointing toward the nearest recognized airport, was painted this week on the convex roof of Leo Maxwell's garage and service station by a painter of the State Road Department's aviation division.

The large letters were painted in yellow on the black background of the curved roof and can be seen for miles by cruising aviators.

An interesting statement made by the departmental worker was that Pahokee is a mile nearer to Clewiston than Belle Glade is to Clewiston. The directional arrow on the sign points in the direction of a landing field at Clewiston, 19 miles across the southern edge of Lake Okeechobee.

URGE DIKE WORK ON WEST SIDE OF LAKE

Moore Haven Residents Want Protection

Acting Chief of Engineers G. B. Pillsbury of the War Department, assured Senator Fletcher Wednesday that it is the desire of the War Department to protect Moore Haven at the earliest practicable date from possible storm damage such as has been wrought in the past, a news report from Washington states.

The equinoctial storm period usually extends from September 1 to October 20. John S. Cottrell, D. S. Weeks and other leading citizens and property owners interested in the Moore Haven section are urging the completion of dikes in front of the town.

Chief of Engineers Pillsbury is securing a report from Col. W. T. Hannum, division engineer, Gulf of Mexico division at New Orleans, as to the time when the levee can be completed.

TARIFF GROUP HEARS GLADES FARMERS' PLEA

Florida Vegetable Producers Ask Tariff Retention

SECRET HEARING

Florida Senator Helps In Presentation of State Case

Florida farmers, among whom were representatives from the Everglades section of Palm Beach county and the vegetable growing section of the east coast, presented arguments to the Tariff Reciprocity Information Committee in Washington early this week in support of tariff duties on vegetable imports "to maintain American markets for American producers." The hearings were started to aid President Roosevelt in bargaining for trade with other powers under the new tariff law, and related to a proposed treaty with Cuba.

Under the power granted him, the President may raise or lower existing tariffs 50 per cent in an effort to stimulate foreign commerce. Numerous industries, fearing duties on competitive importations may be trimmed in the campaign to invite foreign purchases in this country, have asked for an opportunity to be heard by the committee.

The Floridians testified American vegetable growers could not compete in the domestic markets with foreign truck products grown, they said, under living standards far below the American level.

Senator Trammell (D., Fla.) said "While we have a tender feeling for other countries, our first duty is to our own people."

The Senator, and George S. Fletcher, Miami president of the Florida Agricultural Tariff Association, criticised the investment of American capital abroad to use cheap labor in the production of farm crops shipped back and marketed in competition with domestically-grown produce.

A large part of Cuban farm production, the witnesses said, was produced by American capital for American markets.

"If we had certainty of fair competition with Americans who deal in foreign products," said Fletcher, "then we should know how to proceed."

If the tariff on vegetables is not maintained and strengthened, he added, American truck growers, especially in Florida and California, must surrender the markets they have been years in building for themselves.

Trammell said the appeal of Florida was not on unfriendly act toward Cuba, "but merely a request for protection for our own people." He asked that no change be made in the present trade treaty with Cuba.

He told the committee a tariff commission study of production costs in 1930 had shown a com-

Evergladers Come Home To Escape Hot Weather And To Enjoy Vacations

To escape the high temperatures and sweltering weather in other parts of the country, dozens of Everglades families, vacationing in the north, returned to their homes in the Lake Okeechobee region this week and others are expected to return soon. The majority of the returning residents reported extereme heat over the eastern half of the United States with the hottest weather in the mid-west. At Chicago, where many Everglades visitors attended the Century of Progress Exposition, record high temperatures were reported this week following an earlier cool spell when Floridians sought warmer clothing.

Residents returning to their homes in the Everglades find normal summer temperatures with the usual cool evenings common to the farming region. A. normal change of 25 to 30 degrees in daily temperature extremes gives relief to residents when daytime temperatures are oppressive.

Highest temperature this season reported by the U. S. cane testing station at Canal Point was 96 degrees on Friday, July 20. The heat on that day was minimized by showers and a drop to 70 degrees in the evening equalized its effect on residents. Other temperatures in the week ranged from a high of 94 to a low of 68 degrees. The weather has been no warmer this July than in July of last year and temperatures have not been as high as they will probably reach next month. Summer temperatures in the Everglades generally go to as high as 100 degrees a day or two during the late summer but the heat is minimized by cloudy skies and cooling breezes in the evening.

Almost without exception, persons who have visited other states during the past few weeks, are glad to be home where they can enjoy the remaining weeks of the summer in comparative comfort.

U. S. TUG STANDS BY FOR STORM SEASON

The sea-going government tug Fulton under command of Captain John Roddy arrived on Lake Okeechobee Tuesday and is standing by the dredge Gulfport for a quick tow to the St. Lucie Canal in case of a tropical storm this fall.

The Fulton had returned from towing the dredge Congaree from Fort Pierce to near Titusville and was assigned to the Gulfport during the equinoctal period. The tug attended the Congaree during operations at the mouth of St. Lucie river and at lock No. 2 in St. Lucie canal. The Congaree recently has been dredging a turning basin at Fort Pierce.

The Fulton, which made its first appearance on the lake this week, draws six feet of water and carries a crew of four. It is powered by a heavy-duty 100-horsepower motor and is one of the most powerful tugs assigned to duty on Lake Okeechobee.

CONVENTION TO BE HELD BY SINGERS

All-Day Meeting Sunday In Pahokee

The Palm Beach Singing Convention will be held at the Baptist church on Pahokee Sunday, final arrangements having been made for the all-day meeting this week.

Delegations from Hardee, DeSoto, Polk and Charlotte counties will be present and special group singing will be heard from visitors. West Palm Beach members of the convention will attend and with local singers present a varied program of vocal selections.

The convention will open at 10:30 a. m. and after the morning session resume at 1 o'clock following the basket dinner. The general public is invited to take part in the convention.

SYMBOLISM OF THE CORNER-STONE

The "Corner-stone" is the stone which lies at the corner of two walls and forms the corner of the foundation of an edifice. In Masonic buildings it is now always placed in the northeast although this rule was not always formerly observed.

The symbolism of the cornerstone when duly laid with Masonic rites, as was done in placing the corner-stone of the Canal Point school building Thursday afternoon, is full of significance, which refers to its form, to its situation, to its permanence and to its consecration.

As the foundation on which the entire structure is supposed to rest, the cornerstone is considered by operative masons as the most important stone in the edifice. It is laid with impressive ceremonies and the assistance of Speculative Freemasons is often invited to give dignity to the occasion and for this purpose Freemasonry has provided an especial ritual which is to govern the proper performance of that duty.

As to its form, it must be perfectly square on its surface, and in its solid contents a cube. The square is a symbol of morality, and the cube, of truth. In its situation on the northeast corner, it lies between the north, the place of darkness, and the east, the place of light, and hence this position symbolizes the progress from darkness to light, and from ignorance to knowledge. The permanence and durability of the corner-stone, which lasts long after the building in whose foundation it was placed has fallen into decay, is intended to remind mankind that, when this earthly house of his tabernacle (the body) shall have passed away, he has within him a sure foundation of eternal life—a corner-stone of immortality—an emanation from that Divine Spirit which pervades all nature, and which, therefore, must survive the tomb and rise, triumphant and eternal, above the decaying dust of death and the grave.

The stone, when deposited in its appropriate place, is carefully examined with the necessary implements of Operative Freemasonry—the square, the level and the plumb, themselves all symbolic in meaning—and is then declared to be "well formed, true and trusty." The symbolic lesson is thus taught that man's virtues are to be tested by temptation and trial, by suffering and adversity, before they can be pronounced by the Master Builder of souls to be materials worthy of the spiritual building of eternal life, fitted, "as living stones, for that house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens."

And lastly, in the ceremony of depositing the corner-stone, the elements of Masonic consecration are produced, and the stone is solemnly set apart by pouring corn, wine and oil upon its surface, emblematic of the nourishment, refreshment and joy which are to be the rewards of a faithful performance of duty.

Encouragement of education and civic participation in establishment of the national free public school system by members of the Masonic order, makes the scheduled public laying of the Canal Point school corner-stone by the fraternity particularly fitting and appropriate.

DIAMOND BALL

Sunday, July 22

Two teams of the East Beach Diamond Ball League turned in wins over out of town teams Sunday, Richmond & Hooks taking their game with Elliott-Young of West Palm Beach with a 6 to 2 score and B & B winning over the Clewiston Levee Crew 2 to 1.

Monday, July 23

A game replete with thrills and errors furnished excitement Monday when Hudson won from the Methodists by a 12 to 10 score during a drizzling rain.

Tuesday, July 24

B & B was leading Richmond & Hooks by 3 to 1 when the Tuesday game was called in the fifth inning on account of darkness. The game was protested but a win was accorded B & B after a hearing Wednesday night.

Thursday, July 26

The B & B and Methodist game was rained out Thursday and Hudson and Richmond & Hooks played to a 4-4 tie in nine innings when the game was called on account of darkness. The tie will be played off later.

CORNERSTONE LAID DURING HEAVY RAIN

Ceremony Takes Place At Canal Point School

Hindered by heavy showers, the corner-stone of the Canal Point school building was laid Thursday afternoon with Masonic ceremonies conducted by Acting Grand Master R. J. Kishpaugh of West Palm Beach and fraternal associates. Members of the West Palm Beach lodge and Everglades lodge at Pahokee took part in the public ceremony under authority of the Grand Lodge of Florida by invitation of the Palm Beach County Board of Public Instruction. Superintendent Joe A. Youngblood and members of the board were present. William Manley King, architect, who designed the building, assisted in the corner-stone laying with P. L. Emerich, works supervisor for the FERA in this district.

Grand Lodge was opened in the Masonic hall in Pahokee and participating members proceeded to the building site at Canal Point where a procession was formed under direction of Hal G. Young, grand marshal. Officers formed a square on the platform built on the site and the ceremonies proceeded in form. Showers halted the exercises on two occasions, and the audience and ceremonial officials repairing to a classroom where the program was concluded.

A copper box containing papers and other appropriate data was deposited in the stone. The box contained coins from one cent to one dollar denominations, a list showing state, regional and county officials of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, a letter from J. L. Turnage, county administrator of FERA, expressing re-

START IS MADE ON LARGE FALL CROP IN GLADES

Running Down Of Weeds And Plowing Now Under Way

PLANT SEED BEDS

Prepare For Planting Activity In September

In preparation for one of the largest fall truck crops ever planted in the Everglades section of Palm Beach county, running down of weeds was started this week over a wide area and will continue in full swing next week until several thousand acres have been made heady for plowing. Turning under the summer growth of wild vegetation and cover crops will, in many cases, immediately follow the running down process so the vegetation may decay in time for late August and September planting.

Several plots of ground from the Sand Cut section north of Canal Point to the county line near Clewiston have already been plowed and several hundred acres will be turned by the end of next week.

Most of the farming activity up to date, has been done by farmers of large acreages, an early start being necessary to prepare the hundreds of acres that will be farmed by different individuals and combines.

Plowing in the Sand Cut section has been started by W. P. Shackford on the Carmichael place and running down of weeds was started on section 5 southeast of Pahokee. Clearing of 175 acres of virgin land on the Starling-Tedder acreage in section 8 has been completed except for the burning of trash and the two-section tract operated by the operators in that vicinity will be plowed as fast as have been going on for some time on the P. G. Bishop tract in section 18 north of the state prison farm.

Increasing activity is being reported in the South Bay section and in the area along the south shore of Lake Okeechobee served by the South-Florida Conservancy district.

Plowing will continue through most of next month depending on whether the normal let-up in summer rains occurs the few preceding weeks before the autumnal equinox in September. Farmers hope to get their land plowed during early August when precipitation during the annual rainy season is at lowest ebb. Close-in acreage reserved for mid-winter crops, will be handled according to individual preferences of farmers, some being plowed and allowed to lie fallow and other tracts being left for later plowing.

Seedbeds for peppers, eggplant and a few tomatoes have been planted in spots protected from heavy rainfell for fall and winter production. Seed houses in the territory report increasing sales of small seeds and some calls for fertilizer.

Winter acreage of tomatoes is expected to be larger than usual. A large part of the spring crop last season was damaged by flooding rains and tomato growers seek to harvest winter and early spring tomatoes this year before the usual season.

TO GET ACTION ON CONTRACT AWARDS

Belief that work will soon be started on the municipal waterworks system at Pahokee, was expressed by town officials this week after Elvin A. Bass, special attorney for the town, had been notified that contracts are being forwarded to successful bidders.

Notification that the town may enter into contracts with concerns whose bids were recently recommended for acceptance, was made by James E. Cofton, state PWA engineer, who communicated with the attorney in regard to details. No further information was available to town officials who have been awaiting action by the government in approving bids recommended by the council on July 6.

FRANKLIN'S CURE

Benjamine Franklin's "Cure for Hard Times," as reprinted in the New Port Richey Press:

"Make a full estimate of all you owe and of all that is owing to you Reduce the same to note. As fast as you collect, pay over to those you owe; if you cannot collect, renew your notes every year and get the best security you can. Go to business diligently and be industrious—lose no time—waste no idle moments—be very prudent and economical in all things—discard all pride but the pride of acting justly and well—be faithful in your duty to God, by regular and hearty prayer morning and night—attend church and meeting regularly every Sunday, "do unto all men as would they should do unto you." If you are too needy in your circumstances to give to the poor, do whatever else you have in your power to do for them cheerfully—but if you can, always help the worthy poor and the unfortunate. Pursue this course of life diligently for seven years, and if you are not happy, comfortable and independent in your circumstances, come to me and I will pay all your debts."

It requires subtlety of mind to pick flaws in the conduct of our fellow man, but it takes a fine quality of mind to see the good, the noble, and the beautiful so plentifully abundant in human beings.—Mount Dora Topic.

HOME LIVING PROGRAM BASED ON PRINCIPLE MORE THAN ONE PLAN

Folks who are not familiar with farming frequently have fallen into the error of believing that the "live-at-home" program consists of a specific plan which can be followed regardless of conditions. Failure inevitably would attend any attempt to foster the idea on the basis of hard and fast rules for uniform observance.

In Florida, where soils and related elements in the situation differ so greatly, it would be practically foolish for all farmers to undertake the same practices as a means of providing home-raised foodstuffs and feedstuffs. Workers in the State Agricultural Extension Service which has sponsored the "living-at-home" movement fully recognize the truth of the conclusion.

Activities for a more widespread production on Florida farms of the foods and feeds consumed there properly have been more in the nature of a program than of a plan. Under the former the flexibility is feasible, without which success could not be obtained. Procedure has been recommended, subject to modification as may be required in individual instances, that affords a background for achieving the desired end.

"Living-at-home" may mean one thing, in respect to crops and practices when adopted by Farmer A, and quite another thing as followed by Farmer B. Differences in the methods used are likely to be marked as between farms located at some distance from each other. County Agricultural Agents and Extension Service Specialists are, however, in position to advise helpfully, no matter where in the state or what is the need for guidance.

"Living-at-home" means to the agriculture of a community that there has been return to the principle of agrarian independence on which the United States was founded. Under the practises that thrive when the program is in force economic security and industrial prosperity always have been most in evidence. Farmers are good buyers in fabricated products in proportion as they are able to avoid spending money for output they can raise on their own acres.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

By Russell Kay.

DAYTONA BEACH— Galloped over here last week, bag and baggage, to see if I could learn what the wild waves were saying. But just about the time a fellow starts to concentrate on the wild waves along comes a permanent wave that knocks him for a loop. Figuratively speaking this town is a darb.

Folks over here are as coo-coo as a clock. I never saw such a place. The way they treat the tourist and visitor is unheard of. If they keep it up they are sure gonna make it awful tough for other communities to get along with this class of patrons.

Accordin' to the local rules, you are not supposed to drive your car more than 10 miles an hour on the beach. Without realizin' it I was easin' along at about 25, when a nattily dressed motor cop swings alongside. I think: "Oh, oh, here is where a little guy gets jugged."

But instead of dishin' out dirty looks and harsh language, the law was smilin'. Then he tipped his cap and all he cracked at me was: "Slow down, PLEASE." Can you imagine that? Instead of slippin' me a ticket and takin' a ten smacker appearance bond, all I got was a SMILE and a PLEASE. Did I slow down? I'll say I did. So does everybody else, and better still, they like it.

But wait, you haven't heard nothin' yet. I gave my youngster a dime to buy popcorn on the boardwalk. She got it and started back to where I was standin'. The young chap from the popcorn concession came tearin' out after her. I doubled up my fist to sock the hound and he said: "Here kiddie, you forgot your change." With that he crowded a nice new buffalo nickel in her hand. Now laugh that off. In the first place sellin' popcorn at a summer resort for a nickel a bag is all wrong but when a concessioner chases a youngster two hundred yards to give her a nickel change, well I give up.

Here is the smellin' salts. Sniff it a couple of times and then I'll tell you another.

After enjoyin' a swell program and band concert I was drivin' home and a woman backed her car out of the garage smack dab across the middle of the road. She had some trouble shiftin' gears and I had to come to a stop for a moment or two. I was just getting impatient and about to mutter "fool women drivers" when she got her car going. As she pulled out of the way she hands out a smile that would melt the heart of a mummy and says: "I'm awfully sorry." Well what chance did I have to nurse a grouch after that. I tell you the folks over here are just plain coo-coo.

Never mind writin' Mr. Ripley, I've already done that. But listen, here's just one more.

Later on I dropped into a drug store to buy a package of brain tablets. While the smilin' lady was handin' out my Camels I noticed one of those nut dispensing machines, so I asked for a couple of nickels in change, intending to buy some. Instead of givin' me the coins she said: "I'm sorry, but I don't think those nuts are fresh. The man hasn't been around to fill it for several days." Now I ask you, have you ever heard of a town where folks are so blamed concerned about the welfare of the stranger that they actually turn down cash sales rather than risk a possible dissatisfied coctomer?

It was too deep for me so I asked the president of the Chamber of Commerce what had been goin' on in the town, thinkin' maybe some evangelist had been workin' on 'em some but he says no. Folks of Daytona Beach have learned that courtesy and consideration shown a tourist pays a whale of a dividend. Folks come to spend a week-end and remain all summer, they write all their friends to come over and first thing you know the town is flooded with everybody happy, everybody gay. The spirit of the thing catches on to where a guy gets to sayin' "Please" and "Thank you" to his mother-in-law.

Daytona Beach is enjoyin' the best summer in years. The town is packed right now and more comin' every day. If they keep this coo-coo courtesy stuff up, there's no tellin' where it will end. They'll have to double the size of the town or somethin'.

SOUTH URGED TO SAVE HAY TO HELP BALANCE SCARCITY

The drouth in the west and north is directly affecting farmers in the southern and southeastern states, even though growing conditions there are "mostly average or better." It will be financially worthwhile, say economists and crop men of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, for these farmers to save all additional feed they can harvest this summer and fall, especially hay crops, corn stover and various kinds of straw.

They explain the situation in this manner: The southern and southeastern states are primarily consumers of quality hay, not surplus producers. They import timothy from the North Central states. They import alfalfa from the west: Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, Arizona and even California. Hay from these sections usually growing a surplus will be scarce this year, if it can be obtained at all. Even though the south is in a fair financial condition on account of good cash crops and Agricultural Adjustment Administration payments, the cost of hay which is to be shipped in will probably be such that farmers will be repaid for taking pains to make as good a grade of food as possible from whatever forage is available at home. Farmers who are in the habit of buying hay for work stock when the spring cropping season comes around, are likely to find a shortage in 1935, based on the present outlook.

In France the birth of a baby can not be registered in the civil records until its Christian name has been selected from the official list of names issued periodically by the French government.

for the job at hand. His men had entire confidence in his ability and in his discernment. They knew that no matter how far down in the wage scale they might be, he would be aware of and appreciative of good work. No wonder they loved him!

Yet the caliber of the man was such that no one except lifelong friends presumed to call Mr. Moore by his first name, and no one gave him a nickname. Innate and inviolable dignity underlay his easy accessibility, his ready sympathy, and his wide interest in men.

Webster says that friendship is esteem, respect and affection, and that a friend seeks the welfare of the object of his regard. According to these definitions, every last person who knew Mr. Moore gave him friendship, and he in turn was friend to every man on the job. For how many of those men did he try to get higher ratings, more pay, better working conditions? Probably no one will ever know the answer to that question, for he worked without ostentation.

The sum total of a man's life is what he leaves behind in the hearts of others. He has counted in the world only as he has made other people happier, given them encouragement and friendship and laughter. That isn't religion and it isn't philosophy—it is hard and inescapable fact. A man's work may endure a very short time, but the effect he has had on other lives will endure as long as the world lasts.

Encouragement. Friendship. Laughter. Our world is infinitely richer in these because we were privileged to know John Willis Moore.

CONSIDER METHOD OF ROAD 26 WORK

grants to the state highway departments under which the Florida State Road Department will receive as an outright grant approximately $2,660,000 which is available for immediate expenditure. In addition to this grant, the federal legislation authorized regular federal aid appropriations of $125,000,000 each for the fiscal years 1936 and 1937 to the various states. These latter authorizations will require matching with state funds and insure a continuation of the federal program for several years to come. . . . .

"A recent conference with the officials of the State Road Department indicates that there will be a tangible effort made in the near future toward the improvement of State Road No. 26 between Lake Okeechobee and 20-Mile bend, and we have every reason to believe that the complete improvement of this section of highway will be brought about within a period of availability of the appropriations above mentioned. . . .

"The contents of your communication are being communicated to our District Engineer at Montgomery, Alabama, for his consideration, particularly that part of it in which you stress the possibility and desirability of obtaining rock for surfacing by dredging the canal between mileposts 38 and 43."

In the province of Shansi, China, a native farmer unearthed a hat made of jade, a tripod of gold and other valuable objects estimated to be 3,000 years old.

Hefty Twins Born To Fine Purebred Devon Cow In Everglades

Twins are the order of the day, and two hefty calves were recently born to one of the fine Devon cows at the state Experiment Station herd near Belle Glade. Twins rarely occur in cattle, but Village Queen, four years old, is the mother of two calves, weighing 47 and 53½ pounds. Five calves, have been born in the herd since July 1, and it now numbers 45 purebred Devons and 37 others.

From the birth rate, as well as other measures, the station is making rapid progress in introducing a profitable cattle industry into the rich Florida Everglades.

Moderator Will Visit Belle Glade Church

Rev. Frank A. Keene, pastor of the First Baptist church at Fort Lauderdale, who was elected moderator of the Miami Baptist Association last November at Lake Worth, will be present as the guest of Rev. A. W. Taylor, pastor of Belle Glade Baptist church over the week-end and will speak at the worning worship service at 11 o'clock on "Subjects of Vital Interest to All Baptists." The Miami Baptist Association is comprised of a group of 42 Baptist churches from Key West to West Palm Beach as a divisional part of the Florida State Baptist Convention and as moderator of such a group of churches Dr. Keene is kept busy in an advisory capacity by which his years of long and faithful service in the ministry aptly fit him.

Not only is he a minister of well known ability with years of creditable work in the Miami district behind him but he is the son of a minister who was his predecessor as supply pastor in the same church in which Dr. Keen is now pastor.

In 1932 Dr. Keene was president of the Broward County Ministerial Association, composed of all the ministers of the various churches from Ojus to Deerfield. Due to his leadership many civic and important matters were sponsored as well as the spiritual uplift of the community. All are invited to come and hear Dr. Keene.

JOE HUGH REESE VICTIM OF HEAT

A victim of the heat wave now sweeping the midwest, Joseph Hugh Reese, former well-known Florida and Georgia newspaperman, died in St. Louis Wednesday of heat prostration, according to word received by his brother Millard Reese of Brunswick, Ga. Mr. Reese was editor of the "New Deal" magazine, published in St. Louis.

"Joe Hugh," as he was familiarly known to a wide circle of newspaper acquaintances, had worked for many of the larger daily newspapers of the state and on the Savannah Morning News as a reporter. He worked on the staff of The Everglades News a short time several years ago.

The funeral service was from the home of Millard Reese, Thursday in Brunswick. He is survived by his widow and six children, his mother, Mrs. Joseph B. Reese of Kissimmee, Fla.: a sister, Mrs. James M. Johnston of Kissimmee, and three brothers, E. H. Reese of Forsyth, Ga.; Millard Reese of Brunswick and R. S. Reese of Atlanta.

Former Resident Gets Marine Corp Transfer

James Walton Bragg of the United States Marine Corps, has recently been transferred from the marine barracks, Charleston, S. C., to the marine barracks, Hampton Roads, Va., according to information received from Major Louis E. Fagan, Officer in charge of Marine Corps Recruiting for the State of Florida with offices and examining rooms in the Post Office Building, Savannah, Georgia.

Mr. Bragg is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Bragg of Canal Point. He was accepted for service in the Marine Corps at the Savannah office on March 23rd, in 1933. He has served in the following places: Parris Island, S. C.; Norfolk, Va.: Guananamo, Cuba; U. S. Transport, Chaumont; U. S. Destroyer Sturtevant; U. S. Cruiser Richmond, one of the late 10,000 ton cruisers, and marine barracks, Charleston, S. C.

The Savannah office has been authorized to fill two hundred vacancies for the Marine Corps during July and August. High School graduates in this vicinity who desire service in the Marine Corps can obtain applications from the Savannah office.

BOY COUTS FIND HOT WEATHER ON MOTOR BUS TOUR

A group of west coast Boy Scouts with whom Lester and Kyle Hand of Canal Point are making a transcontinental bus tour, report hot weather between Denver and St. Louis with temperatures ranging from 115 to 120 degrees in the shade but that cooler weather had been encountered near Parco, Wyoming.

Pikes Peak and other points of interest have been visited by the scouts and according to the latest report the yellow bus was headed for Yellowstone national park. The party has already crossed one of the American deserts, driving all night to avoid intense heat.

A broken axle 150 miles east of Colorado Springs and brake repair in St. Louis were the only major break-downs of the trip.

The Everglades Scouts joined the Lee county group early this month for the tour that will take the mto Los Angeles and return by way of Old Mexico and southern Gulf states.

Mrs. Barrett Hostess To B & P Womens Club

Members of the Everglades Business and Professional Woman's Club met at the home of Mrs. J. W. Barrett of Canal Point Tuesday night with Mrs. W. H. Blackmon, president, in charge of the business session. Plans were discussed for sending favors for the state's dinner at the regional conference in Blue Ridge, N. C., on August 16-19. Mrs. Olaf Boe, Mrs. H. C. Graham and Miss Elise Barfield were appointed to select favors or decorations. Miss Pauline Hill, who is spending her vacation in North Carolina, will represent the club at the convention.

Discussion also was held on the change of state by-laws. The next meeting will be the first Tuesday in August at Mrs. Barrett's home. Mrs. Barrett, chairman of the health and recreational committee, will be in charge of the meeting, which will be social.

Glades Baseball Team Is Out Of Competition

The Everglades junior baseball team, composed of Pahokee and Belle Glade players, lost their chance for the district championship when they suffered their second defeat at the hands of West Palm Beach All-Stars Monday afternoon at the coast city. The win was the second for the All-Star over the Everglades nine, having taken a game Thursday of last week by a score of 7 to 4 at Pahokee.

The 12 to 1 score Monday afternoon came when the West Palm Beach boys rallied in the third and seventh innings for their scoring spree, the lone tally of the Everglades coming in the fifth inning when Spooner crossed the plate.

The previous game at Pahokee was a closer affair, the locals holding West Palm Beach to a 3 to 1 tally until the eighth inning when the All-Stars came from behind to win with a 7 to 4 score.

Winning of the district championship by West Palm Beach gives them the privilege of representing the district in the state junior baseball tournament to be held at Sarasota in August. The junior teams are sponsored by American Legion posts of the respective communities.

TARIFF GROUP HEARS GLADES FARMERS

petitive tariff just and that it would be unfair to turn around and take away that protection from the domestic growers.

Fletcher warned if the duty on Cuban vegetables were cut by the allowable 50 per cent, "no plow will be stuck in the ground again." He said the continued uncertainty over what if any protection the vegetable growers were going to have by harvest time had destroyed credit for them.

The Floridians estimated half a million persons doing a $15,000,000 annual business would be affected by any ruling. They cited the support of Texas and California producers, evidenced in briefs filed with the head of the special committee, Commissioner Thomas Walker Page of the Tariff Commission.

Representatives of the State, Agricultural and Commerce Departments, the NRA and George Peek, special adviser to the president on trade matters, make up the rest of the committee.

L. L. Chandler, Goulds, Fla., planter and shipper, and chairman of the Information and Research Committee of the Florida Association, said he and his colleagues would seek tariffs as follows:

Raising the 3 cents on tomatoes to 4½ cents a pound, an increase in the 75 cents a hundred pounds levy on potatoes of 50 per cent, reinstatement of the 3 cents a pound on pepper and egg plants which was reduced under the flexible tariff clause and retention of 3½ cents on string and snap and lima beans, 3.9 cents on peas, 3 cents on cucumbers and 2 cents on squash, celery, lettuce and cabbage, and continuation of the 50 per cent ad valorem on all other vegetables.

The various duties were fixed by the 1930 Hawley-Smoot Tariff Act. By reason of proximity and similarity of seasons, Florida and Cuban crops for the most part go to the American markets about the same time. Under the treaty made with Cuba shortly after the island republic was given its independence, various commodities at the time on the free list in certain instances were to remain untouched by duties.

Florida has been conducting a determined campaign to have written in the new Cuban treaty being drafted by the state department provision for protection of its fruit and vegetable growers against the low cost production with asserted peon labor in the islands.

Others who were to appear before the committee were: W. H. Blount of Pompano, grower; H. D. Bennett of Bradenton, secretary-treasurer of the Florida Association; Wallace A. Robinson of Pompano, R. Y. Creech of Belle Glade, C. M. Todd of Pahokee, W. R. Hooker of Chosen, F. B. Rue of Homestead, all growers; John R. Mathers of Naranja, manager of the Florida Avocado Exchange and L. R. Spencer, assistant general freight agent of the Florida East Coast railway.

Office Consolidation Will Not Be Question In November Election

TALLAHASSEE, July 26—(FNS)—The supreme court has unanimously upheld a circuit court injunction prohibiting publication of the proposed constitutional amendment for consolidation of the county offices of tax assessor and tax collector.

The court held that the proposed amendment finally sent to the Secretary of State for publication, never was considered and passed by both houses of the legislature as required by the constitution. The court said that the daily senate journal is subject to correction each day and that after the day passes the journal becomes the final record of proceedings. Failure of the senate journal to show that the resolution passed, the court said, is final, and without passage amendments cannot be submitted to the people.

FARMING EXPANSION

O. W. Manning, one of the growers located between South Bay and Bean City, has branched out in the past year and secured a long time lease on a large tract of land near Felda which he will farm in addition to his tract in this vicinity. He will thus be able to diversify his crops more and protect himself against a complete crop failure at any one time since any major disaster affecting the one tract will scarcely coincide with a disaster on the other tract. Thus he will reduce his risk by one-half and more than double his chances of success.

Mr. Manning is starting operations immediately on the Felda tract where he plans on building a camp for the use of his laborers who will clear the tract preparatory to putting it into cultivation.

Meanwhile he has already put out his seed beds of pepper and eggplant in order to have the plants by the time his land is in condition for resetting in the field.
